

Tony Allen (MA English Literature)

"I have been able to work with a range of different people around the university which has given me great connections both in the university and externally. I've improved my time management and task prioritising, and I now have more relevant examples demonstrating a range of skills which I can use as I start to look for employment."

I have developed lots of skills because of my volunteering but if I had to summarise, it would be teamwork, leadership, decision-making, communication and administration".
